Beſides the Contents of a Memorial that Sir Thomas Geraldino, Miniſter of Spain at London, deliver'd to the Duke of Newcaſtle, one of the Principal Secretaries of State, in Anſwer to the reiterated Complaints of the Engliſh Merchants trading to America, the ſame Spaniſh Miniſter took Occaſion to tell the Duke of Newcaſtle, with an Air of Aſſurance, That he did not believe it would be conſiſtent with the Intereſt of Great Britain to quarrel with Spain, on the above, or on any Account whatſoever, conſidering the great Commerce eſtabliſh'd between the two Nations: But in caſe that ſhould happen, he was certainly inform'd, that the King his Maſter would not fail of cauſing all the Britiſh Ships which ſhould be found in any of the Ports of Spain to be confiſcated. The Letter by which we are inform'd of theſe Particulars, and that comes from good Hands, adds, that according to all Appearance the Court of Great-Britain will, before it makes uſe of Extremities, wait the Iſſue of the laſt Inſtances which Mr. Keene has Orders to make to the Court of Madrid.

A Copy of a Letter from Major General de Stoffeln, Governor of Oczakow, to Count Munich, dated the 20th of November.

I have the Honour to inform your Excellency, that the 8th Instant, very early in the Morning, the Enemy, after having made a false Attack against the Redoubt, on the Mountain bordering the Liman, sustained by a terrible Fire from all their Batteries, and having sprung two Mines near the Bastion of Levendahll, wheel'd all on a sudden to the Right, towards the Gate of Ismailow, and gave a general Assault on the Cover'd way with all their Foot, and 5000 dismounted Spahis. The Attack was made with such Fury that the Enemy had got on one Side up to the Fesse or Ditch of the Town, and on the other had pushed up to the Water Gate near the Liman, having even thrown themselves into the Water to reach it; but with the Assistance of the Almighty, and by the Bravery of the Garrison, we had the good Fortune to drive them back. I commanded on the Cover'd way, and sent Brigadier Bralcken with Coll Wedell to the Water Gate I sprung two Mines, that were near the Casernes, (Barracks) with such Success, that the Infidels were obliged to fly with great Loss The next Day the Enemy continued to make a terrible Fire on us from their Batteries, but in the Night they abandon'd all their Approaches and Batteries with the greatest Precipitation and Confusion, and after having set Fire to their Camp, they marched quite away, leaving all their Ammunition, Ladders, Faicines, and other Materials, behind them, besides a great Number of Dead and Wounded, the Fosses, Lines and Approaches being full of them. The Infidels marched all Night, and have continued their Flight To-day with so much Haste, that they are already forty Werstes from this Place.

I have not yet Time to give your Excellency all the Particulars of what passed, but send my Son Lieutenant Stoffeln to you with this and 20 Pair of the Infidels Colours I have the Honour to Congratulate your Excellency on this great Advantage, of which I shall send you a more ample Detail: In the mean time, I cannot sufficiently express the Bravery of the Garrison upon this Occasion, nor give Praise enough to the Conduct of the General and Field Officers, especially Commandant Brigadier Bralcken and Colonel Wedel. I am, &c.

This Letter is confirmed by another from the Empress of Russia to Count Golowkin, her Embassador Extraoadinary and Plenipotentiary at the Hague.
